Social Psychological consideration in the Mexican American Community

Through readers' theater, mask-making, and other creative expressions: Come learn about the ways in which identity frames self-understanding and how it shapes social interactions. If your aim is to understand the cross-cultural and social psychological study of human development, interethnic communication, stereotyping, learning styles, or other topics relevant to the bicultural setting, this is your course. (Same as MAS 3043. Credit cannot be earned for both BBL 3043 and MAS 3043). All welcome!
