

About UTSA African American Studies...

African American Studies complements and adds cultural diversity value to all fields of study and professions. This program helps prepare college students towards pursuing graduate degrees. Additionally, students engaging in this program will gain insights for working in a variety of professions such as education, law, public policy, health care, and STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) fields.

The African American Studies minor provides a unique insight into the political, cultural, historical, and social experiences of African Americans, with a variety of courses that include an emphasis in a broad range of subject areas. Today, the African American Studies program continues its commitment to adequately represent the multiple facets of the African American experience and the African diaspora through its academic offerings and its support of cultural programming for both UTSA and the broader San Antonio community.

African American Studies Program
presents

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Annual Lecture

Wednesday, January 24, 2018

11:00 am

Retama Auditorium

Introduction

Professor Karla Broadus, Director of African American Studies Program

Musical Presentation

*Ensemble from the UTSA Music Department
Dr. Gary Mabry, Director*

Presidential Remarks

Dr. Taylor Eighmy

Keynote Address

*Dr. Ricky Jones
Professor and Chair of the University of Louisville's
Department of Pan-African Studies*

"MY BROTHER MARTIN:

Democracy, Decency, and Developing Student Success in 21st Century America"

Dean's Remarks

*Dr. Margo DelliCarpini
Dean of the College of Education & Human Development*

UTSA MLK Jr. Scholarship

Closing

*Dr. Vanessa Hammler Kenon
Assistant Vice Provost of Office of Information Technology*

Reception

*Immediately following
Ski Lodge*

Funding & support provided in part by the

BILL & MELINDA
GATES foundation

UTSA
The University of Texas at San Antonio
Office of Information Technology